DIVINE AUTHORITY

1. Divine Ownership
I acknowledge Divine Ownership: I am the possession of God, created by His will and belonging to Him alone, and to nothing and no one else. I, a living soul, exist by the deliberate act and will of God, the singular and supreme Creator of all existence. My life, identity, consciousness, dignity, and purpose are destined and designed by God alone, and by nothing and no one else.

2. Divine Endowment
Everything that pertains to me — without limitation or exception — is endowed, sustained, and protected by God alone, including:

my existence, my life, my breath, my body, my health, my mind, my thoughts, my memory, my intellect, my emotions, my will, my conscience, my spirit, my soul, my identity, my name, my likeness, my voice, my image, my privacy, my data, my autonomy, my time, my attention, my energy, my labor, my skills, my knowledge, my creativity, my works, my writings, my systems, my expressions, my silence, my choices, my non-choices, my actions, my omissions, my relationships, my non-relationships, my property, my non-property, my past, my present, my future, and all potentialities, possibilities, and works not yet created or conceived.

3. Non-Derivation from Human Authority
None of the above derives from, depends on, or is subordinate to any human authority, institution, government, collective, doctrine, ideology, legal system, or administrative structure.
Nothing and no one, nor any other power, is the source, owner, superior, or arbiter of my being, my rights, or my destiny.

4. Inviolability of God-Given Rights
All rights inherent in my existence are unalienable, irrevocable, non-transferable, non-waivable, non-licensable, non-convertible, non-seizable, non-extinguishable, and non-derogable.
Nothing and no one- no individual, institution, government, court, organisation, or entity— public or private— may lawfully diminish, infringe, suspend, convert, license, monetise, appropriate, or interfere with any aspect of my God-given rights, identity, or existence.

5. Supremacy of Divine Authority
God alone holds ultimate authority over my soul, my body, my mind, my will, my existence, my destiny, and all that pertains to me. No law, statute, code, regulation, treaty, policy, contract, judgment, order, or administrative act supersedes or nullifies the authority of the Creator with respect to me.

6. Divine Obligation
Everything and everyone falls under Divine jurisdiction. All persons, institutions, entities, and authorities who engage with me — in thought, word, action, omission, or design — are bound in accordance with the Laws of God, the Will of God, and The Way. Everything and everyone is subject to divine moral order, divine intent, and divine accountability. Any violation of these divine standards shall be answered before God, who is the ultimate Judge of all conduct and the Witness of all intentions. Nothing and no one is exempt from this obligation, and no earthly authority may override or nullify the divine accountability attached to their actions toward me, or toward anything or anyone else.

7. Divine Protection and Inescapable Accountability
My existence is under the protection of God, who is the Witness of all actions and the Judge of all intentions.
Any harm, injustice, deceit, exploitation, coercion, or wrongdoing directed toward me — in thought, word, action, omission, or design — is seen by God and shall be answered for before Him.
Everyone and everything is accountable for their conduct, and nothing and no one escapes divine knowledge or divine justice.

INTRODUCTORY NOTICE

This booklet constitutes the official and international publication of my human rights.
It is the authoritative declaration of the universal rights, protections, and legal guarantees that apply to anything related to me—my person, my presence, my identity, my name, my boundaries, my behaviour, my decisions, my expressions, my silence, my image, my voice, my likeness, my works, my systems, my creations, my concepts, my doctrines, my writings, my actions, my non-actions, and every manifestation, extension, or consequence of my being, whether direct or indirect, spoken or unspoken, written or unwritten, physical or digital, visible or invisible, present or future, actual or potential, embodied or yet to be brought into existence.

These rights are not optional, negotiable, symbolic, or advisory. They are not suggestions, guidelines, or interpretative aids. They arise from and are guaranteed by the UN International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the UN Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the UN Code of Conduct for Law Enforcement Officials, the UN Convention on Enforced Disappearance, the UN Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers, and the UN Body of Principles for the Protection of All Persons under Any Form of Detention or Imprisonment. Together, these instruments establish the full framework of protections recognised under international law, including safeguards relating to arrest, detention, enforced disappearance, legal counsel, and the treatment of all persons under any form of deprivation of liberty. Among these protections are the universal rights to freedom of thought, conscience, religion, belief, opinion, and expression, as affirmed in the ICCPR and the UDHR, as well as the freedom to seek, receive, and impart information and ideas across all frontiers and through any medium.

These rights apply automatically, universally, and without exception to every Recipient who approaches, observes, interprets, references, engages with, or comes into contact with any aspect of me or anything related to me—my person, my presence, my identity, my name, my boundaries, my behaviour, my decisions, my expressions, my silence, my image, my voice, my likeness, my works, my systems, my creations, my concepts, my doctrines, my writings, my actions, my non-actions, and every manifestation, extension, or consequence of my being, whether direct or indirect, spoken or unspoken, written or unwritten, physical or digital, visible or invisible, present or future, actual or potential, embodied or yet to be brought into existence.

The purpose of this notice is absolute clarity: to eliminate ambiguity, prevent misinterpretation, and establish the definitive scope of the rights that protect me under international law. It is a declaration of my legal standing, my protected freedoms, and the non-derogable nature of the rights recognised herein.

By reading, accessing, referencing, interpreting, or engaging with this booklet—or with anything related to me—my person, my presence, my identity, my name, my boundaries, my behaviour, my decisions, my expressions, my silence, my image, my voice, my likeness, my works, my systems, my creations, my concepts, my doctrines, my writings, my actions, my non-actions, and every manifestation, extension, or consequence of my being, whether direct or indirect, spoken or unspoken, written or unwritten, physical or digital, visible or invisible, present or future, actual or potential, embodied or yet to be brought into existence—the Recipient acknowledges that they do so voluntarily and that they are fully bound by the rights, protections, and legal principles contained herein.

All responsibility for interpretation, reaction, and action remains solely with the Recipient. No claim of ignorance, misunderstanding, disagreement, objection, or alternative interpretation nullifies, weakens, or modifies the applicability or authority of these internationally recognised rights.

Non-Association Clause

No other individual bearing the same name, in any jurisdiction or context, is associated with, connected to, authorised by, or in any way linked to this publication or any of its doctrines, systems, formulations, or expressions. Any person sharing the same name but lacking authorship of these canonical works is entirely unrelated to this document and holds no rights, claims, or representational capacity in relation to it.

PREAMBLE

This Preamble affirms the internationally recognised rights that govern every form of approach, reference, perception, interaction, engagement, proximity, acknowledgement, interpretation, or involvement with anything related to me—my person, my presence, my identity, my name, my boundaries, my behaviour, my decisions, my expressions, my silence, my image, my voice, my likeness, my works, my systems, my creations, my concepts, my doctrines, my writings, my actions, my non-actions, and every manifestation, extension, or consequence of my being, whether direct or indirect, spoken or unspoken, written or unwritten, physical or digital, visible or invisible, present or future, actual or potential, embodied or yet to be brought into existence.

These rights are not granted by individuals, groups, institutions, platforms, or entities.
They are not dependent on approval, agreement, interpretation, or recognition by any external party.
They arise from and are guaranteed by the UN International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the UN Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the UN Code of Conduct for Law Enforcement Officials, the UN Convention on Enforced Disappearance, the UN Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers, and the UN Body of Principles for the Protection of All Persons under Any Form of Detention or Imprisonment.

Together, these instruments establish the full framework of protections recognised under international law, including safeguards relating to arrest, detention, enforced disappearance, legal counsel, and the treatment of all persons under any form of deprivation of liberty.

Among these protections are the universal rights to freedom of thought, conscience, religion, belief, opinion, and expression, as affirmed in the ICCPR and the UDHR, as well as the freedom to seek, receive, and impart information and ideas across all frontiers and through any medium.

No individual, group, institution, platform, or entity may interfere with, suppress, redefine, diminish, reinterpret, or claim authority over these rights, nor may they impose any framework, narrative, categorisation, or limitation upon my thoughts, beliefs, expressions, or identity beyond what is recognised under international law.

Nothing concerning me—my identity, my meaning, my role, my position, my works, or my presence—may be assumed, interpreted, defined, framed, or attributed in a manner that violates, contradicts, or undermines the rights established by these international instruments.

To encounter my words is to enter the domain of these rights.

To reference my name is to acknowledge their authority.

To approach my presence is to accept the primacy of the freedoms recognised herein.

These rights stand above perception, above interpretation, above intention, and above all external frameworks.

They bind universally, perpetually, and without exception, regardless of jurisdiction, location, belief, opinion, or personal stance.

SELECTED ARTICLES FROM THE UN INTERNATIONAL COVENANT ON CIVIL AND POLITICAL RIGHTS

Article 16

Everyone shall have the right to recognition everywhere as a person before the law.
